Mrs. Bixby rendered the Aria Amour! Vieni! Amour! Of her own composition, "My Garden" and "The Nightingale and the Rose" are both original and musically. Mme. Feeding Green Cut Bone Pays.

Mr. A. F. Hunter, who is one of the regular contributors to the New England Farmer, not long ago said in the columns of that paper: "Feeding fresh cut bone to fowls, to induce abundant laying, has proved a decidedly profitable thing. The bones are rich in animal matter and contain lime, of which the egg shell is made, and hens fed on fresh cut bone will lay a larger number of eggs than if fed no bone. Not only will they lay a larger number of eggs, but the eggs will be stronger-bodied, will be better eggs, and if incubated will have better and stronger chicks." C. S. Page of Hyde Park, Vt., on receipt of $3.50 will forward to anyone a 200-pound barrel of Green Cut Bone, prepaying railroad freight to any place in New England or New York.

I GUESS SHE WAS RIGHT.

I told my love with many sighs that she was sweet and sweeter;
That all the world held not a prize that I should deem complete.
I vowed upon my bended knees she fairer was than others,
Including all the dainty belles and also all their mothers.

I swore by Cupid and his bow that in the wide creation
She, she alone, was heaven-sent to prove my life's salvation.
I told her divers things like these, till you might deem me daffy,
But she—she merely smiled and said: "I think you give me taffy."

That I was shocked I here admit; it seemed a cataclysm
To drop me from my height of love to such a blank abyss.
I grieved in anguish for a time, and suffered most extremely,
But dwelling on that sorrow now, I judge, were scarcely seemly.

For time and I have cooled since then; our second wind we're getting;
My broken heart is soothed and healed, old time has healed abetting,
And though her conduct was quite rude, and also not polite, sir,
I guess I'd better here confess that that dear girl was right, sir.

—San Francisco Chronicle.

Explained.

"The milk you left yesterday was sour," indignantly said the young housekeeper.

"Was it, ma'am?" innocently asked the tricky milkman, "well, that's that lazy farmer's fault. He overleapt himself yesterday morning and didn't milk the cows until three hours later than usual."—Philadelphia Press.

HANDY CHICKEN COOPS.

A Combination of Coop and Glass Covered Run.

A liberal supply of coops should be provided for the confinement of hens with broods of small chicks and for those hens which insist upon sitting at inconvenient times. A few days in solitary retirement will usually break up the desire to sit, and the hen will soon after resume laying.

The common A shaped coop is one of the most easily constructed and convenient forms in use. The one disadvantage connected with it is the difficulty of removing the feeding and drinking vessels for cleaning or of catching a bird in it without danger of the birds escaping. To obviate this one of the slats may be made to slide.

The opening made by sliding this slat is sufficient to admit the hand and arm so that any part of the coop may be reached without leaving an avenue of escape unguarded. For early hatched chicks which come out when the atmospheric temperature is so low as to be injurious to them a combination of coop and glass covered run, as shown in the cut, has been found very useful.

MARKET GARDENING.

Attractive and Satisfactory Features of the Business.

The market gardener sells his goods for cash. This simplifies his accounts immensely. In a large market he can sell all grades of goods, and this encourages him to grade his stuff carefully.

There is much variety to each day's work. Help can make longer hours of hard work than they could at some other kinds of business.

Crops mature in a short time. There is a great opportunity for good management, and most market gardeners delight in harvesting one crop from a field and getting another started on the same place the same day. There is so much variety to the crops that if one falls there is still time to try another.

Most of the waste corn fodder, pea and bean vines and beet tops can be sold to milkmen. Then all the ground between rows of corn, celery and tomatoes can be used for growing smaller stuff, like spinach, lettuce or radishes, without hurting either, and in this way large gross returns can be made for each acre. On one large market garden where this system of close planting has been in use for years they raised and sold in 1904 about 14,000 boxes of radishes which were grown between rows of other large crops. On one day they had 612 boxes, which brought $165.

The amount of business done per acre on market gardens varies from $400 to $1,000 or over. While there are many market gardeners who can give you the returns from each crop raised, there are very few who have gone into cost accounting and can tell how much any crop has cost.—H. M. Howard, Massachusetts.

We need to preserve the watersheds of New England for irrigating our valley lands and to give us an equitable water flow for our industries as much as do our western people to supply their great artificial irrigation systems. The government would not allow the forests removed after it had gone to

BLOCKADED

Every Household in Barre Should Know How to Resist It.

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded.
Help the kidneys with their work.
The back will ache no more.
Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.
It's the best proof, for it comes from citizens of Barre.

Mrs. T. D. Strout of 137 Seminary street, Barre, Vt., says: "My kidneys were affected for about five years, causing me a great deal of pain in the small of my back. I would have such sharp twinges shoot through me when I attempted to stoop or lift anything that I had to rest until the attack passed off. I was so nervous I could not sleep nights, but tossed and turned continually. I was so impressed by what I read about Doan's Kidney Pills curing others that I got a box at E. A. Drown's drug store. After using it there was a noticeable change for the better in my condition and I kept on taking the remedy until the pains in my back disappeared. I could do my housework with ease and could sleep well nights. For backache and achesy trouble Doan's Kidney Pills are a most reliable medicine."

great expense in building irrigation enterprises which depend upon such reservoirs for success. None the less should the White Mountain and other proposed reserves be allowed to succumb to injudicious management. While the conduits or streams are natural and have not been an actual outlay of expense to the government, nevertheless the importance of their judicious husbanding by the nation is equally great. If the national government will look after the great watersheds and natural reservoirs of the country the states will gladly improve and enhance their forest policies and resources.—Forestry and Irrigation.

Diet.

Sudden change of diet is sometimes dangerous. During the Revolutionary war soldiers from the southern states became mysteriously ill when marched into the north. They longed for fat bacon, and most of them recovered when this was served out to them as part of their rations.

Not Wild and Woolly.

"Dallas? Why, it's one of the greatest little towns in this country," and W. C. Robinson glared around the waiting room in the Hotel Kennett as though he defied any one to gainsay him.

"But what about its moral side?" piped up a feeble voice—"this wild and woolly side, about which we hear so much?"

"Hah! You hear and read, but there are few of you who see. Let me tell you there is no fabrication so great as that regarding the lack of Christianity in that country. Right here is an instance which, to my mind, hits pretty close to home. We've got a Y. M. C. A. down there in Dallas. And everybody is interested in that organization. Last month they decided that they needed $100,000, and they needed it in thirty days. They told the people of Dallas that they needed the money, and in thirty days, sir, they had it. Now, when you want to tell real Christianity you try it through the medium of the pocket-book. If a fellow's willing to go down into his wallet to help the cause, why I believe he's sincere. Maybe they do that sort of a thing in the East here, but any specific examples of it haven't come beneath my notice."

"Wild and woolly? Well, I guess not," he sniffed, and a sudden hush fell upon the assembly.—Baltimore News.
